

Diversity Requirement II.1: Global Perspectives and Issues

Criteria

For category II.1, at least half the course must be devoted to the study of global perspectives and issues or to the study of areas outside of Europe and the United States. “Global” in this context refers to the perspectives of multiple and diverse regions of the world and to issues currently of importance to those regions (e.g., poverty, the environment, religion, and so on). This requirement may be met in appropriate study abroad programs, as determined by the Curriculum Committee.

Faculty who believe that a particular course or set of courses fulfills the expectations of the requirement without conforming precisely to the listed criteria may petition the Committee on Instruction for approval. The committee will make determinations on a case by case basis.

Global Perspectives Course Proposal

Date: _____

Name of Instructor: _____

Department: _____

Course Number and Title: _____

Term & Year of first offering (if a new course): _____

Frequency: _____ every term _____ yearly _____ alternate years

_____ other (please explain) _____

Enrollment limit: _____ Typical enrollment: _____

1. What are the prerequisites for the course?

2. What are the goals and purposes of your course? Are global perspectives, as defined above, a principal focus of your course?

3. What assignments in the course involve global perspectives or issues? Briefly describe illustrative assignments and how the assignment contributes to the global perspective goals or purposes of the course.
- If you have taught a version of this course before, please attach a copy of the course syllabus and, when available, send a revised syllabus.
- For new courses, please send a copy of the syllabus after the first offering of the course. Please also include, if available, copies of handouts that illustrate the types of assignments you use.
4. In order to build a set of resources for other instructors, we would like to collect sample materials. Do we have your permission to share your materials with others? ____ yes ____ no
5. Will this course be offered in the current or next academic year? ____ yes ____ no