

Lawrence University 2015 Profile

Lawrence University is a residential liberal arts college and conservatory of music, both devoted exclusively to undergraduate education. It is a supportive academic community of 1,500 intellectually curious, diverse and multi-interested students from nearly every state and 50 countries—all committed to a rigorous and challenging educational experience.

The Lawrence faculty is devoted to Engaged Learning as the most effective way to prepare students for lives of personal fulfillment and professional accomplishment. It is a demanding approach to education for students who demand much of themselves. It is what characterizes a Lawrence education and distinguishes Lawrentians.

Using this engaging approach to learning, Lawrence helps students develop the abilities that are highly valued by graduate schools and sought after by employers. Among these are the ability to solve problems, communicate effectively, work collaboratively and thrive in a rapidly changing world.

The Lawrence campus is adjacent to downtown Appleton, a vibrant community of 73,000 in which the city and the college benefit from one another. The Fox Cities, a cluster of 20 cities and towns along the Fox River with a combined population of more than 236,000, is one of the fastest growing metropolitan areas in the state and has consistently been named one of the best medium-size metropolitan areas in the nation, based on quality-of-life indicators. By car, Appleton is 30 minutes south of Green Bay, 90 minutes north of Milwaukee, two hours from Madison, three hours from Chicago and four and one-half hours east of Minneapolis/St. Paul. The Appleton International Airport (ATW) is approximately five miles from campus and is served by United Express via Chicago; Delta via Atlanta, Detroit and Minneapolis/St. Paul; and Allegiant Air via Las Vegas, Phoenix/Mesa and Orlando/Sanford.

CAMPUS

The 88-acre Lawrence campus is situated on a bluff overlooking the historic Fox River and contains 62 instructional, residential, recreational and administrative facilities. Adjacent to downtown Appleton, the campus is bordered on two sides by attractive early 20th-century residential neighborhoods. Björklunden vid Sjön, a 441-acre estate on Lake Michigan in Door County, serves as the college's northern campus, hosting curricular retreats and seminars for students each weekend throughout the academic year and continuing education seminars during the summer for alumni and the public.

Lawrence is a residential college—more than 96 percent of all students live on campus in one of eight residence halls, 17 small houses and other student residences.

ACCREDITATION

Lawrence is accredited as a degree-granting institution by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The Conservatory of Music is an accredited institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Music.

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

Three 10-week terms (Fall, Winter, Spring) compose the academic calendar, spanning mid-September through mid-June. A normal course load for students is three six-unit courses each term (18 units).

ACADEMIC PROGRAM

The program emphasizes extensive and deep learning through rigorous and engaged instruction given in a rich set of courses emphasizing small group or single-student tutorial courses, independent study projects, studio work and faculty-student research and scholarship collaborations. Nearly 90 percent of our recent graduates have had one-on-one course experiences. This emphasis on engagement is made possible by one of the lowest student-to-faculty ratios in the country (among the top 20). The university also offers a large number of interdisciplinary courses, emphasizing engagement with contemporary world concerns, and has extensive programs of off-campus study and community internships. Each student is encouraged to develop the capacity for self-direction and concern for effective and ethical action in the contemporary world. All students begin their program with a nationally known Freshman Studies seminar course and complete their requirements with a student-centered Senior Experience.

Lawrence offers majors in traditional liberal arts disciplines and interdisciplinary programs; student-designed majors are also available. Within the Bachelor of Arts program there are 33 majors, 38 minors and three interdisciplinary areas. Majors include anthropology, art (studio), art history, biochemistry, biology, chemistry,

Chinese language and literature, classics, East Asian studies, economics, English, environmental studies, French, gender studies, geology, German, government, history, linguistics, mathematics, mathematics-computer science, mathematics-economics, music, natural science interdisciplinary, neuroscience, philosophy, physics, psychology, religious studies, Russian language and literature, Russian studies, Spanish and theatre arts. Minors are offered in anthropology, art (studio), art history, biomedical ethics, biology, chemistry, Chinese, cognitive science, computer science, creative writing, East Asian studies, economics, education studies, English, environmental studies, ethnic studies, French, gender studies, geology, German, government, Greek, history, Japanese, Latin, Latin American studies, linguistics, mathematics, music, neuroscience, philosophy, physics, psychology, religious studies, Russian, Spanish, teaching ESL and theatre arts. Interdisciplinary areas include film studies, innovation and entrepreneurship and international studies. In the Bachelor of Music program Lawrence offers professional study in music in four major areas: performance, music education, composition or music theory; student-designed majors are also available. Students seeking the B.Mus. may also complete any of the minors or interdisciplinary areas, exclusive of music, offered in the B.A. program and a conservatory minor in pedagogy.

The five-year, double-degree program allows students to earn both a Bachelor of Music and Bachelor of Arts degree through a blended program combining professional study in music in the Conservatory with significant work in a non-music discipline in the college.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

Established in 1894, the Lawrence Conservatory of Music is an integral component of a nationally recognized, exclusively undergraduate institution. Music students at Lawrence University take full advantage of coursework in the liberal arts and sciences, often pursuing double-degree programs and benefiting from the opportunity to work directly with senior faculty members across the disciplines. The Conservatory offers the Bachelor of Music in performance, music education, composition or music theory and the Bachelor of Arts with a major in music.

FRESHMAN STUDIES

Entering students enroll in Freshman Studies, a two-course sequence specifically designed to acquaint them with the modes of inquiry characteristic of intellectual discourse at Lawrence and to enhance their reading, writing, speaking and critical thinking skills. Through the study of important works of systematic thought or creative imagination, the course raises for discussion and analysis important ideas of abiding concern. Freshman Studies is both an introduction to and an integral part of a Lawrence education.

COOPERATIVE DEGREE PROGRAMS

Engineering (B.A./Bachelor of Engineering) with Columbia University, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute or Washington University; Forestry and Environmental Studies (B.A./ Master of Forestry or Master of Environmental Management) with Duke University School of the Environment; and Occupational Therapy (B.A. or B.A./M.S.) with the Washington University School of Medicine.

TEACHER CERTIFICATION

Secondary education certification (early adolescent through adolescence, grades 6-12) is available for most majors offered in the B.A. curriculum. Early childhood through adolescence (K-12) certification is offered in art, foreign languages (Latin, Chinese, Japanese, French, German, Russian and Spanish) and music (choral, general, and instrumental). Certification in elementary education will begin in Fall 2016.

OFF-CAMPUS PROGRAMS

Lawrence encourages students to engage in at least one term of study away from the campus and offers 57 off-campus programs: nine domestic and 48 international. Nearly 40 percent of each graduating class will have studied abroad during their time at Lawrence. The college itself sponsors the Lawrence London Centre and the Francophone Seminar in Dakar, Senegal and administers a Marine Biology term including field study in Grand Cayman. Other programs are offered through Lawrence's membership in or affiliation with a variety of organizations including the Associated Colleges of the Midwest, Associated Colleges in China, Great Lakes Colleges Association, Institute for the International Education of Students and International Studies Abroad. Study abroad programs are offered for students in all academic areas and students receive strong advising and administrative assistance as they consider their options and prepare for their program, and upon their return to campus.

ATHLETICS, CLUB SPORTS, INTRAMURALS, AND CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

Intercollegiate athletics at Lawrence dates back to at least the 1890s. A founding member of the Midwest Conference and a member of NCAA Division III, Lawrence fields 22 varsity teams: 12 for men and ten for women, including baseball, basketball, cross country, fencing, football, golf, hockey, indoor track, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, outdoor track and volleyball.

Club sports offer a middle ground between the highly competitive varsity sports and the more low-key approach to intramurals. Club sports such as men's and women's crew, men's and women's ultimate frisbee, women's ice hockey, sailing, Nordic ski team and curling have a long history of competition and participation.

Intramurals offer students seeking fun and camaraderie a chance to compete without the commitment of a practice schedule and season. Activities vary depending upon student interest and include badminton, basketball, racquetball, soccer, volleyball, dodgeball, kickball, flag football, broomball and ultimate frisbee. Anyone can join intramural teams and special tournaments are organized every year.
