Soloist Bio

Evan Ney is a fifth-year student from Haverhill, Massachusetts, studying saxophone performance and English. His primary teachers are Steven Jordheim, José Encarnación, and Joseph Connor. He plays in a variety of styles, including jazz, classical, and contemporary music, and performs at Lawrence with the Wind Ensemble, Jazz Ensemble, New Music Ensemble, a wind quintet, saxophone quartet, saxophone duo and others. He was a featured soloist in the Lawrence University Jazz Band submission which won a Downbeat Student Music Award for Best Latin Jazz Performance. He has worked with several composers to produce new works for saxophone, and his upcoming senior recital features four world premieres, as well as two of his own compositions. He has sat every chair in the Wind Ensemble, playing soprano, alto, tenor, baritone and even bass saxophones, and has been principal player for several concert cycles. He is a passionate performer, educator, and composer, and also loves to cook, watch his beloved soccer team, Arsenal, and birdwatch with his dogs.

Plans for next year: Begin my pursuit of a Master of Science in Agriculture as a part of my Foreign Agricultural Service fellowship.

Favorite memory of Wind Ensemble: Performing the Corigliano Clarinet Concerto with Dr. Andy Hudson in February!

Fantasy graduation gift: A house in the middle of the ocean on an island of a remote Scottish island with a huge flower garden that would flourish all year round and a lighthouse.

Ryan Saladin

Majors/degrees: B.Mus. in Trombone Performance, B.A. in Neuroscience

Plans for next year: Attending DePaul University for a Master of Music in Trombone Performance and attending the Lawrence Chamber Music Festival this summer

Favorite memory of Wind Ensemble: Too many to count! Probably playing bass trombone on Stephenson's Symphony No. 2 under James Stephenson's baton!

Fantasy graduation gift: An extra few (or dozen) trombones...and a Mazda Miata!

Matthew Springer

Majors/degrees: B.Mus. in Woodwind Performance

Plans for next year: I will be returning home and gigging in the Twin Cities area.

Favorite memory of Wind Ensemble: Our performance of the Corigliano Clarinet Concerto, the energy was electric, and it was just so fun to perform.

Fantasy graduation gift: A collection of brand-new instruments

John Stecher

Majors/degrees: B.Mus. in Music Education (Instrumental/General Music), B.A. in Economics

Plans for next year: Student teaching this fall then finding a teaching job.

Favorite memory of Wind Ensemble: Playing Jasper Kashou's piece, Let's Lift the Bandstand and being conducted by Paula Crider.

Fantasy graduation gift: A talking pet tiger that I will name "Hobbes."

Sarena Sueoka

Majors/degrees: B.Mus. in Music Education (Choral/General Music/Instrumental)

Plans for next year: Student teaching in the fall and beginning my career as an educator

Favorite memory of Wind Ensemble: Performing the Corigliano. One of the craziest pieces I've ever gotten to be a part of.
